

ISTE 140.07 Project

I feel like what I have done nicely would be keeping everything small and brief. I did not want to put lots of information in one spot but to spread it all around. Using minimal usage of code keeping everything easy to read for my own easy. I picked the right pictures and video that would go well with what I am trying to get the reader to understand.

Two factors that I wish I could work on are my styling, I have been struggling with how to style with what colors or how to design nicely and smoothly. Another improvement that I would like to improve is my sectioning. I feel like there is a lot of whitespaces that I could have filled up. I would also like to improve my navbar. On how it looks and how it should be responsive.